

Joshua Aaron Rotenberg

Arvada, CO (Remote) • 303-726-5037 • jrotnbrg@gmail.com • linkedin.com/in/joshua-rotenberg

September 15, 2026

Salt Security

Re: Website Manager

Dear Hiring Team,

Two things upfront: my CMS experience is Wix, not Webflow, and I don't have cybersecurity-industry experience. What I do have is real technical SEO and CRO work across SaaS clients, and a genuinely relevant angle on the AEO/GEO piece of this role that most web marketers won't bring.

At Solenzo, I run technical SEO audits with Screaming Frog, implement schema and structured data, and manage Google Tag Manager setups daily. I've also diagnosed CRO bottlenecks directly, cleaning up a client's paid-search quality and then tracing the remaining problem to on-site conversion. Beyond the SEO fundamentals, I build AI agent systems for a living, writing the structured prompts and instructions that determine whether an LLM produces accurate, useful output. That's the same underlying skill answer-engine and generative-engine optimization requires: understanding how an AI system decides what to surface and why. I'm not claiming formal AEO/GEO tool experience, but I understand the mechanism better than most candidates coming from a pure SEO background.

I'd welcome the chance to talk about how that combination, real technical SEO and CRO plus genuine LLM fluency, could work for Salt's website.

Sincerely,

Joshua Aaron Rotenberg