Re: Sales Enablement Manager

Dear Hiring Team,

Every job I've had, I've ended up building the training materials, onboarding process, or playbook nobody assigned me to build, then handing it off when I moved on. This role is the first time that work would be the whole job instead of the thing I did on the side of a quota, which is exactly why it caught my attention.

At Wix, I built the sales training curriculum for tenured account executives, not just new hires, while running onboarding for a team that scaled to 20 people. At Birdeye, I built the training sequences and communication workflows that onboarded a partner network of 15-20 resellers end to end. At Solenzo today, I write the instructional content, playbooks, and reusable messaging frameworks my clients' teams run their operations on. Different products, same instinct: turn what one person knows into something a whole team can use.

I'd welcome the chance to talk through how that experience fits what you're building at Ookla. I'm at 303-726-5037 or jrotnbrg@gmail.com.

Sincerely,

Joshua Rotenberg
