Superhuman

Re: Group Manager, Growth and Website Content

Dear Superhuman Growth Team,

I'm excited to apply for the Group Manager, Growth and Website Content role. Superhuman and Grammarly sit at the intersection of two things I work in every day — productivity software and AI-assisted content — and over the last two years I've built exactly the kind of AI-enabled content systems your team wants to scale: agent architectures that generate high-quality, on-brand copy without sacrificing editorial judgment.

Across 15+ years in SaaS, MarTech, and agency growth teams, I've turned strategy into web content that moves the numbers that matter. At Wix, I led a team of specialists and a high-value web portfolio that grew website traffic 30% and improved conversion 25% in the e-commerce segment, aligning site architecture, SEO, and on-page content to user intent. As founder of Solenzo, I own content strategy end to end — roadmaps, briefs, landing pages, technical SEO, and quality control — while building the AI workflows that let a lean team produce more without diluting quality. I'm a genuine player-coach: I develop people and still write the highest-stakes pages myself.

I'd welcome the chance to talk about how I'd help your content marketers connect business-unit needs to broader growth goals across Grammarly.com and Superhuman.com. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Joshua Rotenberg
