Storage Asset Management

Re: Marketing Generalist

Dear Storage Asset Management Hiring Team,

I'm applying for the Marketing Generalist role because its operating model is familiar: use location-level performance data to identify the constraint, build a tailored marketing plan, and align revenue, operations, and delivery teams around the work. Through Solenzo I do that for service-based businesses today, combining campaign strategy, CRM architecture, analytics, and hands-on execution rather than separating planning from implementation.

The evidence maps closely to SAM's priorities. I have built 20+ GoHighLevel workflows across lead capture, qualification, booking, nurture, reactivation, and reviews, plus an automated prospect-audit workflow that enrolled 180+ contacts. At Level Agency I managed integrated inbound, paid-media, and content strategies and built reporting around ROI, CAC, LTV, and conversion. At Wix I onboarded and launched 25+ clients per month while reaching 120% of sales targets and 110% of implementation targets; across the e-commerce segment I supported, website traffic increased 30% and conversion rates improved 25%.

Self-storage would be a new vertical, but the underlying work is not: diagnosing local-market performance, adapting strategy by audience and operating context, coordinating multiple stakeholders, and measuring whether lead generation and conversion actually improve. I would bring SAM a direct, analytical working style and the ability to move from insight to execution across email, paid media, SEO, content, landing pages, and CRM automation. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Joshua Rotenberg
